The Incompatible Prophecies

An Essay on Science and Liberty in the Political Writings of Bertrand Russell

by Louis Greenspan, Associate Professor of Religious Studies, McMaster University.

Professor Greenspan has spent many years studying the Russell Archives. He has distilled his studies to a terse, cohesive essay which comes to grips with the central quality of Russell's social and political writings and activities.

Written in a distinctive, lucid style and based upon exhaustive research, this book should provoke much debate in the growing literature of Bertrand Russell, the political philosopher and activist.
