

ADVISORY EDITORIAL BOARD

The Project's Advisory Editorial Board has been rounded out at twelve members by the addition of Dr. Philip Gaskell, bibliographer, textual theorist and Librarian of Trinity College, Cambridge. Dr. Gaskell is the author of A New Introduction to Bibliography (1972) and From Writer to Reader (1978), as well as other works. He has been a consultant to the Project for the past year.

PROJECT STAFF

We are pleased to welcome three new members to our staff. Dr. Irving H. Anellis, formerly Assistant Professor in the Mathematical Sciences Department at the University of Minnesota at Duluth, has accepted the position of Research Associate (history of mathematics). Irving holds a PH.D. in philosophy from Brandeis. Paul Gallina resigned in May to become Bibliographer of the Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety in Hamilton. Dr. Bernd Frohmann, who has worked for the past two years as a graduate student for Professor John Slater, has been hired as the new Bibliographical Assistant. Bernd holds both a PH.D. in philosophy and an M.L.S. The third new addition to our staff is Joy Drew, our full-time photocompositor. Joy previously worked for the Hamilton Spectator.—S. T.
