MCMASTER IN 1983!

The Russell Editorial Project will hold their 1983 Conference June 24 - 26, 1983 at McMaster University.

McMaster is located in the west end of the City of Hamilton, just a few minutes from downtown by car, taxi or public bus with good ground connections to Toronto International Airport and just six miles from Hamilton's own Mount Hope Airport.

Local attractions for visitors to Hamilton include Dundurn Castle, Gage Park, Hamilton Place, big city shopping, and the beauty of the Niagara Escarpment. Niagara Falls is just an hour's drive. Those who wish to take it easy may enjoy a quiet stroll along the wooded trails of the Royal Botanical Gardens which thread through the ravines bordering McMaster's campus on the north.

On campus accommodation in one of McMaster's modern residences will be available to all delegates attending the conference. These residences feature single and twin bedded rooms with centralized washroom facilities. Residences are equipped with elevators, strategically located lounges, activity rooms and larger areas conducive to informal gatherings or workshops. Cafeterias and dining rooms are close at hand for daily meals and special banquets. Meetings will be held on campus just a short walk from the residences.

Rates include all bedding, towels, soap, daily maid service, parking and 5% Ontario Retail Sales Tax.
