CONTRIBUTORS

¶JOLEN GALAUGHER works on the history of analytic philosophy, particularly Russell. She is a SSHRC post-doctoral fellow at the University of Iowa and will be the 2014 Bertrand Russell Visiting Professor at McMaster University. Her book Russell's Philosophy of Logical Analysis is forthcoming with Palgrave Macmillan, as is her contribution to The Palgrave Centenary Companion to Principia Mathematica. ALAN SCHWERIN is Associate Professor of Philosophy at Monmouth University, currently serving as President of the Bertrand Russell Society, and recently completed a five-year project that was published by Cambridge Scholars Publishing as Hume's Labyrinth: a Search for the Self. RUSSELL WAHL is Professor of Philosophy at Idaho State University. He has published on Russell, the history of logic, early modern philosophy and analytic philosophy. He was the 2013 Russell Visiting Professor at McMaster and is a director of the Bertrand Russell Society. I. GRATTAN-GUINNESS is Emeritus Professor of the History of Mathematics and Logic at Middlesex University and a Visiting Research Associate at the London School of Economics. CHAD TRAINER recently published "Frederick Copleston's Epiphany in Hawaii" in The Heythrop Journal. In December he represented Russell (against "Augustine") at an event in Pennsylvania sponsored by a local church and the BRS on how to live a satisfied life. He chairs the board of the BRS. STEFAN ANDERSSON is continuing his research on the International War Crimes Tribunal and is finishing part one of his illustrated memoirs. JAMES CONNELLY is Assistant Professor of Philosophy at Trent University, Peterborough, Ont. His "Russell and Wittgenstein on Logical Form and Judgment" is forthcoming in Theoria. YOUR EDITOR spoke on "1948 Russell vs. 1958 Russell: Towards 'That Oneness with Large Bodies of Human Beings'" at the 2013 annual meeting of the BRS.

EDITH FINCH RUSSELL

¶A late research gift from Edith Russell, via the BRPF, has arrived—a metal box crammed with letters and personal documents that predate her marriage to Russell. Among them are many neat transcriptions of letters to and from her companion, Lucy Martin Donnelly, and Lucy's friends such as Logan Pearsall Smith and Helen Thomas Flexner. There are almost daily letters in the fall of 1940, when the Russells were house-hunting under Albert C. Barnes' "guidance" near Philadelphia. Russell is philosophical about it: "Bertie who is eternally hopeful and docile liking each one in turn and P[eter]'s plans for it." But on Barnes: "Bertie hates the dependence—is irked by the rôle of Voltaire at Potsdam."

As for the loss of CCNY: “He is deeply sad over his plight, the tears came to his eyes as he told me ‘no university will consider employing me.’ The authorities at California refused the earnest petitions of students and faculty to reappoint him.” There is much besides on the war, politics, and his marriage (he wasn’t permitted to drive alone with Edith Finch).

FORTHCOMING BOOKS

¶Except for the latest two complete volumes, Russell may be consulted freely on the Internet at the Library’s website at <http://digitalcommons.mcmaster.ca/russelljournal/>. For online and print subscriptions, see this site or the rear cover of the issue. The annotated catalogue of letters in the Russell Archives totalled 122,305 records by July 2013. 1,563 new entries were made since last count, and over 800 others revised. The Collected Letters project, other researchers and staff all use it.
